When the Lions heard us roar

VIKRAM PANDEY

YOU CAN FEEL the change in the air when you land in the south of France. The afternoon temperatures are higher than ever. The diversity and sheer number of tourists is unlike anything we have seen before. The events happening at the 70th Cannes Lions Festival of Creativity pretty much followed suit. The change was evident.

Last year, India saw its best performance ever at Cannes. With multiple Grand Prix honours, Titaniums, Agency of the Year title, and tons of Gold, Silver and Bronze Lions, Cannes Lions 2022 was India's 'mic drop' moment.

So this year, they handed over the mic to us, literally. Indian representatives were speaking at various forums at Cannes 2023. From some of our celebrated creative leaders and network agency heads to marketing heads and newly-launched agency heads, we have been taking the stage by storm.

We had presentations at the Innovation Lions on how tech is helping Indian farmers by inventing ways to protect their farmland and get more out of it. We presented at the Glass Lions on ways to stop the beauty test that Indian women go through every day. We told stories of how international brands like Spotify are succeeding in India by flipping the marketing playbook.

Indian speakers are giving the audience from various parts of the world a sneak peek into what this incredible country of 1.4 billion is like – our likes and habits, our challenges, our innovations and our 'Indian' way of doing different things. But most importantly, we are showing them how India is an idea whose time has come and how you just can't afford to ignore us anymore. We are mid-way through the festival and while the Indian tally so far is not looking anything like last year, Indian work has found its fans and lovers. We have redefined ourselves by scoring not in traditional print or outdoor categories, but in new-age categories of creative data, innovation, brand activation, influencer, and many more.

On a personal note, this year's Cannes Lions is a changing experience for me as well. Our work for Airtel has been awarded a Gold in Brand Activation Lions, and I plan to take my seven-year-old to the stage with me to receive the award. That's because she has changed the way I look at the world around me. Forever.

BEHIND AIRBUS' MAMMOTH ORDER BOOK

Aircraft maker Airbus has grabbed the lion's share of India's new orders in the past six months, totalling 750 planes. It already has pending orders for 480 planes, taking the total to 1,230 aircraft. Swaraj Baggonkar takes a look at what goes into the making of Airbus aircraft and how the company's orderbook stacks up

How many aircraft can Airbus make

It takes about one month to complete the final assembly of an A320 family aircraft. Production lead time of an A320 from the first piece manufactured to the delivery of the aircraft is around 1 year. Airbus has a worldwide order book of 7,239 airplanes by the end of December 2022, much higher than rival Boeing, which has orders for 4,500 jets. Airbus is able to make 55 aircraft per month presently at all its factories. This, it hopes, will be scaled up to 65 per month by the end of 2024 and to 75 per month by the end of 2026.

This guidance includes large planes like the A330 where production will be increased to four per month and of the A350 to nine per month by the end of 2025. Airbus recently said that it was yet to reach the delivery pre pandemic schedules. The company recorded an 8.2% growth in deliveries, to 661 aircraft in 2022 from 611 aircraft delivered in 2021.

Production sites

Airbus has more than 20 manufacturing sites, each producing and assembling different parts of the aircraft—which subsequently are shipped to final assembly lines where the complete aircraft takes shape. It uses its own Airbus Beluga to ferry sections of the fuselage from manufacturing sites to assembly sites.

These plants rely on thousands of suppliers worldwide, who produce roughly 80% of the aircraft. It has 12 final assembly lines at five locations globally, including its Toulouse, France, headquarters—which hosts two final assembly lines for the single-aisle A320 family, along with one each for the widebody A330 and the A350. Assembly lines also operate at Hamburg (Germany), Tianjin (China), Mirabel (Canada), and Alabama (US).

GROWTH IN DELIVERIES BETWEEN 2021 & 2022

How does the order book look like

IndiGo's order for 500 Airbus A320 aircraft is the single-largest order in the history of the global aviation market.

These aircraft are expected to be delivered between 2030 and 2035, in addition to the 480 pending deliveries expected to be delivered by 2030. Tata-owned Air India has also placed an order for 250 aircraft comprising 140 A320neo, 70 A321neo single-aisle aircraft as well as 34 A350-1000 and six A350-900 wide-body jets.

Between January and May this year, Airbus received a total of 178 fresh bookings, led by 73 orders from Qatar Airways, followed by 15 from Lufthansa. It delivered 244 aircraft in the same period.

Airbus forecasts a demand for 40,850 new passenger and freighter aircraft deliveries over the next 20 years, of which 32,630 will be typically single aisle and 8,220 wide-body.

It has maintained its lead over rival Boeing, which has delivered 206 aircraft till end-May this year. Clients from the Asia Pacific region account for the largest chunk of Airbus's orders so far.

Airbus also sells aircraft to private individual buyers and companies. As per company data, there are 249 government, executive and private jets in operation at the moment.
